Postponement Of Assessment Law Ruled Unlikely

HARRISBURG, March 15 P-The possibility of postponing the Jan. 1 deadline for uniform real estate assessment in Pennsylvania was ruled unlikely today.

Chairman Steven (R-Clinton) of the Senate Local Government Committee said counties already have had five years to comply

"No legislation is planned at this time to change the effective date of Jan. 1, 1958. It's up to delinquent counties to get going if they are to comply with the law."

Under the law, county tax assessors determine assessments and the local assessor serves as an adviser. The only counties exempt from the law are Philadelphia, Allegheny, Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montgomery, Westmoreland and Berks.

A municipality or school district that feels its revenue is being curtained by low assessments, after next Jan. 1, will be allowed to go into court and force county commissioners to make uniform

"Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath. he cannot be my disciple."

THE CHRISTIAN life is a life

It was sacrificial in its history. The whole Old Testament religion was built upon the system of sacrifices-of oxen, sheep, or doves. Since "the life is in the blood" it was the life sacrificed in death that procured forgiveness of sin and assured the presence of God in life. The Old Testament economy was a shadow of better things to come.

It was sacrificial in its ommencement. It was John the Baptist who said, "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." The death of Jesus Christ was the sacrificial price He was willing to pay in order that man might be reconciled to God. "We are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all."

It is sacrificial in its practice. In order to be a disciple of Christ it is necessary to forsake all and follow Him. The Lenten season is rightfully one of self denial and self sacrifice. However, it is not the giving up of things that God desires, but the giving up of self. Furthermore, this sacrafice of self should not merely be a temporary decision induced by the season of the year, but it should be followed through as a daily practice, a continual laying of self upon the holy altar of God as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God. In this sense the Christian life is a life of sacrifice. Anything short of this does not become the true disciple of Christ.

Although they emphasize they are not complaining, the rash of recent brush and grass fires has given Monroe County firemen a legitimate reason to complain.

Spring and Fall, when the covering is driest, are the seasons when most of these nuisance fires break out. Strong and shifting winds add to the hazard.

As a rule, carelessness is the major factor underlying the fires that get out of control. All residents should keep in mind a few important precautions before setting a match to rubbish, a pile of leaves or a field that is to be burned off.

First of all, no outdoor fire should be started if a strong wind is blowing. Furthermore, no rubbish fire should be started unless someone is there to watch it until it has burned itself out.

In cases where large piles of rubbish are to be burned, the home-owner would be wise to separate it into smaller piles and burn them at different times. Fires should not be started in areas which are surrounded by high weeds, brush or dry grass.

As a concession to Monroe County's firemen all of whom serve on a volunteer basis, everyone should make it a point to confine their rubbish burning to the late afternoon hours. And keep in mind that a small, outdoor incinerator is the safest bet for burning rubbish and an open fire the most hazardous.

Democracies Differ In Some Respects But Results Are Frequently The Same

British debaters at Oxford University jibed at American politics the other day on the ground that our two major parties are virtually the same. They said American voters are offered no real choice.

Nobody denies the Republican and Democratic parties have broad similarities. They both revolve around a wide middle area. But it isn't true that this leaves the American citizenry no choice.

First, about the similarities. Our parties have to be loose assemblies of broadly divergent viewpoints or they could make no pretense at being national. They cover 3,000,000 square miles and 170 million people, while Britain's parties represent a mere 50 million people living on 94,000 square miles of land. We have nine states, any one of which is bigger than Britain.

No tarpaulin which attempted to cover the United States could possibly be of one political color. Both parties are conservative and liberal, both have elements that favor big government and small. All shades are represented.

As for the business of choice, we probably have at least as great a measure of it as the British or French. Within the big middle ground zone, there are important matters of emphasis which can make each party's contribution distinctive despite general similarities.

Actually, in America and most of the democracies, only when a great crisis like a major depression rocks the nation are we likely to see the political parties move toward extremes which would give the voters a choice among big goals. Most of the time the people aren't looking for it.

It is no accident that America, Britain and France are today dominated by large groupings of moderate-minded politicians. That's how the people want it.

paragraph: 1. Has our foreign aid program been useful? What has it done for the United States? Precisely what political and economic benefits have accrued to the United States from it?

2. Is our present inflationary condition to be regarded as a "relatively minor effect on the domestic economy"? More paper money is being circulated now than during the period 1933-1952. The ratio of our gold stock to our non-gold money is the lowest of yearly ratios since 1932. Is this to be considered a "relatively minor effect on the domestic economy"? is only a small part of the total scale on which the raids are takeconomy seems to me fatuous. The fallacy in this paragraph is the reference to 1955 prices which has nothing to do with the question. What does matter is what kind of dollars we are using, 50 cent dollars, or 35 cent dollars, or what. Sonne apparently disregards inflation altogether and pays no attention at all to the fact that individual debt has risen in this country to a point which all economists except the Keynesians regard as unwarranted

Of course we have two things to remember. Some people in East Stroudsburg have made the statement that they don't care what Smithfield does as long as they stay in the jointure until the new high school is built.

The other thing is that the East Stroudsburg board doesn't have to worry about where the money is coming from. When they are asked when they are going to put their problem before the taxpayer as the other districts did they will advise you that they are a third class school district therefore they can raise their millage as high as they need to to meet the costs.

If the taxpayer will check in districts which have recently built schools and the cost ran from $2400 to $4600 per pupil or more they will find that this was in heavily populated districts in industrial areas. I wonder, can our joint districts with a total population of about 10,000 afford the difference between the $1700 and the present plans. .

In line with the above belief, I will make an honest effort to work with the Smithfield Board to see that we get our proper distribution of buildings, and that the cost is kept to the minimum. and help to see that millage is adjusted as assessments are increased to meet cost of operation and construtcion.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Daily Record Stroudsburg, Pa.

Since I became a member of the Smithfield School Board, we have seen six extremely interesting years, particularly since the formation of the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School District and the problem of raising money for the proposed building program has arisen.

We of the Smithfield board have set our sights on several goals, among them to see to it that detailed plans for the building addition to the Smithfield School shall be made available for interested lay persons of the dis-trict to study and make recommended suggestions.

The board has tried to secure for our school more than the two classrooms and the 1800-squarefoot auditorium which they originally planned to give us. The history of population and pupil growth in our township indicate a need for more than two additional rooms. The two rooms planned for our district could be filled by school opening next fall, if they were made available at that time. What about the fu-

Smithfield pupils should attend Smithfield School-too many already have been transported to other schools.

Should we only get the two rooms and the 1800-square-foot auditorium so far allotted to us, and the jointure were to dissolve we would be left with two classrooms and an inadequate auditorium which could not comfortably seat our present enrollment of 246. Its floor space calls for 180 seats, approximately, less

In support of my feelings concerning our share of the building addition program, I would like to point out that Smithfield Township, with population and pupil enrollment on the increase and classrooms already overcrowded, is scheduled for only the same size addition as two other combined districts of the jointure which can show no increase in population.

This looks to me like a middle of the road policy to pacify, Most people of the area are not fully aware of the comparative of our school enrollment.

According to monthly payments made to the joint board, "made on a per pupil basis," we have one-third as many pupils in the joint schools as East Stroudsburg, college training school excepted, and almost twice as many as Middle Smithfield.

(I do not try to indicate that Middle Smithfield is not in need of an addition, but simply try to show Smithfield's urgent need for more than is suggested-or planned at present.) The October, 1956 payments to the jointure were as follows: Price Township, $751.90; East Stroudsburg Borough, $34,534.26; Middle Smithfield, $6,105.91; Smithfield, $11,986.49. As you

Labor experts fear that the Senate's investigation of labor racketeering may create a general anti-labor sentiment throughout the country.

At present, they say, the investigation headed by Senator John L. McClellan (D), Arkansas, seems only to be harming the reamsters union and its president, However, there is indication that the investigation will not stop until it is no longer frontpage news. By that time, labor straegists say, anti-labor feeling will be so strong there will be no chance of achieving revisions in the controversial Taft-Hartley Also, they say, the "right to work" state laws which outlaw the all-union shop will definitely be on the increase. Indiana, first major industrial state to do so, has just enacted such legislation. The investigation is almost sure

Just Between Us

-By Bobby Westbrook

Well, if we've got to grit our teeth and be joyful no matter what-we might well be joyful over the dress-making ability of the younger generation.

By the end of a very rainy atternoon which left most people looking as wretched as wet cat looking as wretched as a wet cat it was a refreshing change to see all the home economics students, skipping, hopping or mineing around in their gay summer cottons as they prepared for their very own fashion show.

Seventh and eighth graders with the skirts and blouses were definitely skipping. Some of the younger high school models of afternoon frocks, perched precariously on high heels, minced. But they all looked fresh and crisp as daisies.

Though having braved their dressing room hubbub it was difficult to see how. It wonders me that none of them got buttoned together so that they'd have appeared like Siamese

As I say, they were a refreshing change. Most disgruntled of all were those who had canceled all plans for the day in order to sun bathe-Hah!

Almost had my first swim of the year, at that. I was hustling down the Record alley after dark on a last minute errand and waded straight into a lake that stretched from wall to wall. I backed out before it got waistdeep, but it was a dismat end to a dreary day.

ROUND AND ABOUT AT WYCKOFF'S: John Wilhoite, one of the friendlier young people seen around our store, is all smiles these days

as he looks forward to a summer job with the Waring Workshop that will take him to California for a time . . . Elsie Miller's big excitement right now is the newly arrived shipment of Whitman samplers prettily encased in delightful summer handbags—a beautiful gift for St. Patrick's, (tomorrow, remember!) Easter, or Mother's Day. There are four styles, as I recall: the Caribe, of lustrous straw with two curved handles, a flap closing, and strawberries as decoration; the Tropicana, of bamboo-type straw in tote style with shell embroidery; the Lido, a very fine natural straw with a delightful sheen and sea shell decoration, and the Sorrento, a white crocheted straw bucket bag. All are lined, and look as festive as can be—just perfect for summer wear. And each holds a one pound box of these delectable Whitman chocolates . . . Seeing the hair pieces sold in our notions department, I am reminded of the fright Mary George gave her mother when she returned from the Inter-national Hairdressers' Show in New York, with one golden lock drooping fetchingly over her forehead. "That's one thing that always worried my mother when I took up hairdressing," Mary explains. "She was afraid I might change the color of my hair. I actually had to remove this curl to prove to her it was false." According to Mary and Frieda Fabel, a blonde curl is nothing these days—the styles call for pink. blue, green, and even maroon hair. To go "over the rainbow" in Spring Ricky Grant Cobb, who was lamps for 1.98 in our center aisle. The one style has a brass base and three years old on March 10, was the guest of honor at a party held at 16 Greene St., Stroudeburg on Saturday March 15. # Jewish People To Hold Feast Of Lots Celebration

TODAY IS A DAY of joy and merriment for Jews around the

But it is also a time for quiet reflection, thanksgiving and hope for the future.

Today members of Temple Israel Synagogue in East Stroudsburg will join their brethren around the world in celebrating Purim, or the Feest of Lots. "Purim commemorates the day when, through the intervention of Mordecai and Queen Esther, the Jews of Persia narrowly escaped being the victims of Haman's plot to exterminate them," explained Rabbi Yehudah E. Perkin.

The Megillah (Book of Esther) will be read in every synagogue. Reading of the scroll is set for 6:30 p.m. at Temple Israel.

"The Megillah presents a well organized story with Esther as the heroine, Mordecai, the hero, and Haman, the villain." Rabbi Perkin stated. "When the reader comes to the name of Hamah, the whole congregation blots out

This House Boasts Many Advantages

By Penny Hazell

I HAVE OFTEN wondered what event in my life influenced me to such an extent that I became really interested in homes-not just for myself but for others as well. Well, the other night I found the answer.

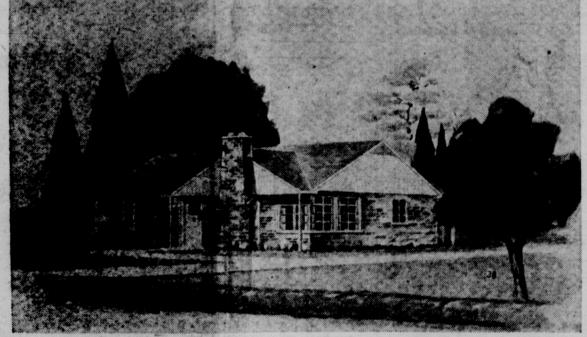

A group of us were sitting around discussing one thing and another when some one started to recall what event, object, or person it was that had been successful in awakening them to full consciousness during the ethereal period between the ages of one and four years. I suddenly remembered-for the first thing that ever made an impression on me was the picture of Ann Hathaway's cottage that my land mark of historical value.

Many Fine Features In This House

By Penny Hazell D'YOU KNOW-a key is a wonthe situation—this is important to every lawyer. Then again there is the key to the heart-absolutely vital to each young lover. A locked door is a darned nuisance if you do not have the key. And let us not overlook the key to the cityhm . . . the politician's delight.

The key to this conversation, however, is the "key to happiness" - namely, a home of one's own. The little house I am presenting

Living Room Large For Small House

By Penny Hazell

OOOOH! My feet hart. I've been looking at Model Homes all afternoon but none of them had much to offer in my estimation. Last week, however, I walked over to a new Super-Market and on the way I passed the little house pictured above, and having the same female curiosity of most women. coupled with a little more nerve, stopped to admire and ask if might peek inside.

The first thing that attracted me to this home was its exceedingly attractive exterior appearance. The home is of red brick combined with wood siding, and field stone for the entrance. Of course, it could be built of just plain white wood siding, or cement or cinder block. In a few months, the woodbinor ivy will find its way up to the sun via the chimney and your home will look just like the picture on top of a calendar.

The interior, I think, provide for a great deal of convenient living. You enter the front door through a vestibule which I liked because you are protected from the cold breezes. It cuts down on heat cold weather paraphernalia.

You Can Build This R. C. Cramer Lu-Re-Co Home For Only $4,645.27, (Tax Included and Delivered To Site)

Individually planned homes are SPEEDILY BUILT withLu-Re-Co panels. Because of research, instituted by lumber dealers, you can gain all the savings of modern manufacturing methods without having to live in a house with a dated, factory look-a house that depreciates in value simply because of year to year changes in model styles.

Lu-Re-Co panels, developed through a research project of the Lumber Dealer's Research Council, allow you to individually plan your home to fit your family's needs and desires; and the result is a house that looks different and is different-than factory produced homes high cost of transporting house parts from distant factories-for Lu-Re-Co panels are produced in the R. C. Cramer lumber yard. They're manufactured, too, by home town labor thus you help the prosperity of our own home town by building a Lu-Re-Ce home.

Lu-Re-Co built homes qualify for FHA and V.A. loans ,and meet the building codes of local communities because standard, full-size materials are used in planning using Lu-Re-Co panels, the Research Council has developed five different, demonstration homes in corporating up-to-the-minute ideas of leading architects. We hope you'll like these designs-but if you don't, remember R. C. Cramer Lumber Company can build just the house you want with Lu-Re-Co panel construtcion-and save you time and money! There's no end to variety of designs with Lu-Re-Co panels. The house shown above features a compact floor plan, the WP-2 series of homes provide a room arrangement that simplifies family living. Excessive room traffic is elin inated by a carefully planned central hall that efficlently serves the entire living area. The "L" kitchen with enting space is a picture of efficiency and includes automatic laundry facilities. In addition to the recom mended amount of cabinets, the kitchen also has a large tsorage section for multi-purpose use. The shoulder high windows featured in the bedrooms not only assure the maximum of light, ventilation, and privacy, but also permit a more flexible furniture arrangement in these rooms. Individual rooms are relatively large for a house having only 960 square feet of floor space. Outside dimensions of the home are 21' 8" 40' 8". A modern touch is added to this design by use of a 2/12 sloping roof which is extended to form a carport with storage space. Carport and storage area are located at the service side of the home. used in this plan are the awning type, fixed windows with hopper type below them and clerestary fixed glass in the gable end. Vertical siding is featured on this exterior. So drop in and find out more about Lu-Re-Co panels. We'll be happy to show you the full size panels made in our shop, and explain fully how this system can be applied to the construccion of most any one story house by means of an interesting and informa tive scale model . . . or send 25c in coin for our 12 page illustrated color booklet describing the new Lu-Re-Co Panel System. #### Long Closets Complete With Sliding Doors

By Penny Hazell

I WAS really a bit irritated with my ever-loving husband the other night. I was tired and comfortably curled up with a 'whodonit'-and about to find out 'who done it', too, I might add, when in he barges, orders me to dress (in a most bossy tone)-saying he had committed us to a visit with a friend from his office-and a chance to investigate their new home. Whodonit or not-I am a pushover for a new house-so I allowed myself to be persuaded.

As we approached the dwelling, the first thing that hit me smack in the eye, was the rather radical newness of the decorative treatment on the exterior. The planting box on the right of the porch and the metal tub with pipe legs, no less, were something I had never seen. It was a drizzly night, so I couldn't help comment that the

Brick Used With Vertical Wood Siding

By Penny Hazell

I EXPECT THAT the plan I've chosen to present today will be one of the favorites in my series. Of course, I've been known to be wrong-for who isn't once in awhile? There do seem to be quite a number of features incorporated in this design that answer the needs of many of the readers who've written to me in the past few years.

F'r instance, the combination of brick and vertical wood siding is most popular right now. It makes a warm and inviting exterior appearance and is practical and longlived.

The vestibule that protects the home from winter winds is an absolute must, as is it's accompanying large coat closet. And so many of you gals have asked for a kit- lead to an unfinished second floor Homes 'Alive' chen at the front of the house in- that can be completed at a later stead of the rear. #### Dining Room Has Built-In China Shelf

By Penny Hazell BUILDING your home is much like playing 20 questions. Y'know, that game that a group of very intelligent people used to play on television. Someone (let's say he's a builder) allows you to ask him questions until you guess the right

It's confusing and often costly but I've found out personally that this is generally true-please don't be unhappy, Mr. Builder, for you may be different than the ones with whom I've recently come in contact. You may be the 'helpful type' and if so you're eliminated from the game right now.

I am not here to grips so instead of going on with this train of thought, I'll just park my peeve somewhere else and tell you about the plan that I've chosen for today. It's made of brick, and vertical wood siding has been used attractively to give it an almost 'old informal dining on warm summer world' look. The front porch is evenings. cute as a bug with it's cross lattice work and will be most inviting corner sink sitting under windows to visitors. I can assure you. Coat Closet Handy
